

FUTURE DATE

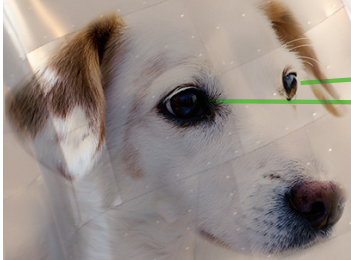

In the year 2020, poverty and global warming have been irradiated, life expectancy is 230 years, and dating is really dumb. A few time travelers have returned to 2017, to show how mating is all figured out in the future.

according to the fictional world of Future Date, couples fall in love, like, or acquaintanceship through a complicated series of courtship rituals, tests, games, and in the end, they are paired up by the audience.

wacky visual challenges and awkward methods of communicating are employed to find the “perfect match.” and force couples into publicly declaring their love / like in a fun wild way.

GAME PLAY

12 competitors are picked at random from the audience using an LED bouquet toss

In the future every person is unique, so each competitor names their own personal gender and personal orientation.

Competitors are all playing to make the best connection (as voted by the audience) it doesn't need to be about romance or sexual attraction, but those are great things too!

6 players watch while 6 players try to communicate using a game of twister each competitor must eat an entire apple while making eye contact with another.

everyone arm wrestles... and more

BETWEEN GAMES, THERE'S COMEDY, MUSIC, & VAREITY ENTERTAINMENT

CREATED BY

scot nery

creator of critically acclaimed comedy shows Scot Nery's Boobie Trap and Crash Course, Scot is focused on creating magical moments for audiences.

stefan haves

he's worked with cirque du soleil as a comic act creator, casting specialist and coach for a decade and directed Teatro Zinzanni.

bryce soderberg

current bassist for hit band Lifehouse, bryce is a musical genius who brings music direction and performance to Future Date.

